

What is IAF CertSearch database?

MSECB

What is IAF CertSearch database?

When businesses and governments need to make important decisions when developing their supply chains, they rely on accredited certifications. Thus, International Accreditation Forum (IAF) has established IAF CertSearch database so that accredited certifications from around the world can be validated digitally.

IAF CertSearch, a global database that currently aggregates data from 69 Accreditation Bodies and 4000 Certification Bodies, one of which is also MSECBC, makes it simple and easy to search and validate an organization's certification(s).

It holds 1.650.000+
Accredited Certifications in over 193 economies.

How it works?

One of the best features of this platform is the ease of usage. Certification bodies are required to upload the certification data on their Certified Entities so they can be able to participate.

Afterwards, the Certified Entities will receive their activation link via email invitation from IAF CertSearch. org from their Certification Body directly or claim their account directly in IAF CertSearch. Certified Entities then will need to click on the link to activate their account in IAF CertSearch to appear in the database.

If the status of a certification (suspended, withdrawn, expired) held by a supplier in their network changes they will receive a notification. This way users can effectively manage their certified supply chains in real time.

Global Support

Accredited certifications everywhere in the world are having a major positive outcome on organizations helping them to produce quality products and services and improving environmental and social conditions worldwide.

Sheronda Jeffries, IAF UAC Chair, stated: "Via IAF CertSearch businesses and governments can ensure all suppliers in their supply chains hold valid accredited certifications and can be instantly alerted if the certification is suspended, withdrawn or expired."

In the other hand, IAF Chairman Mr. Xiao Jianhua said: "IAF CertSearch is a game changer for accredited certification, improving the awareness, integrity and value of accredited certification. Organizations will no longer be able to claim to have an accredited certification when they do not."

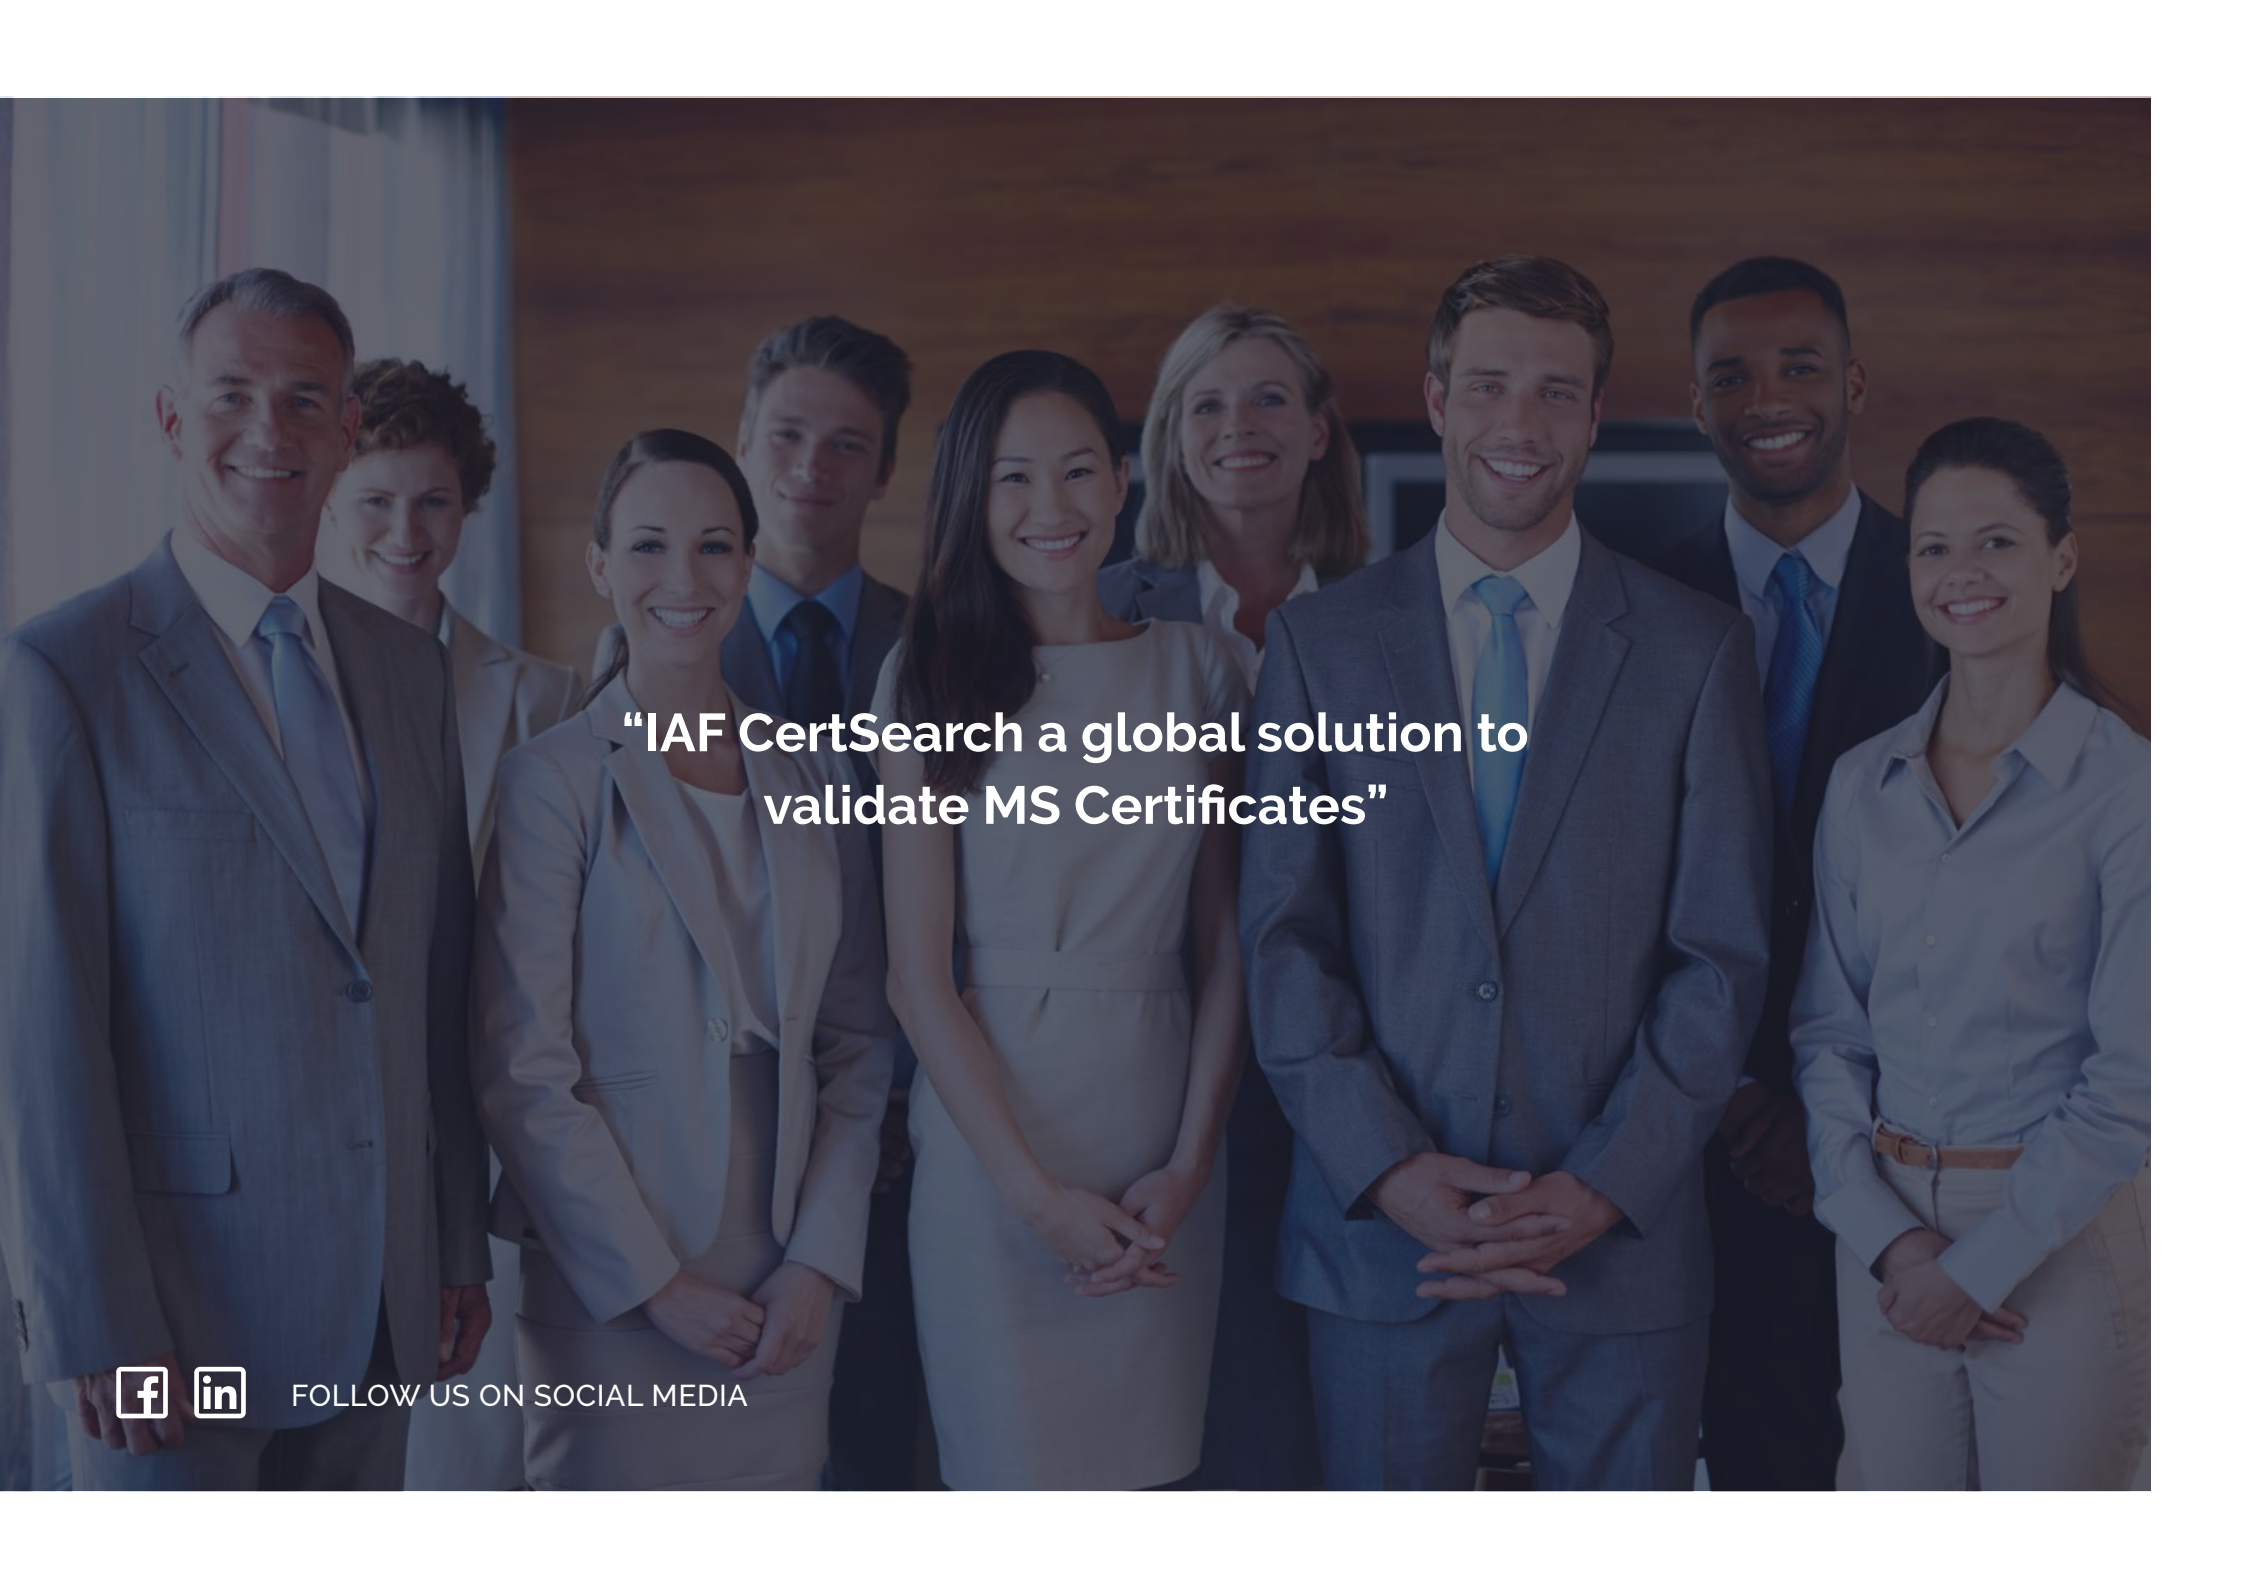

Many stakeholders all around the world have shared their support about this much needed global database.

Representatives from all levels of the accredited certification network, industry, government and regulators had to say something about this database in the video linked below.

WATCH VIDEO

“IAF CertSearch a global solution to validate MS Certificates”

FOLLOW US ON SOCIAL MEDIA